

B.C - Before Christ

The days 1) _____ (BECOME) colder and colder. Algar's family were not hunters, they were _____ so the food was harder and harder to find. Algar 2) _____ (WAIT) for the day when his great-grandfather Alfred, the oldest of the _____, told it was time to move on.

It was only when all the leaves were yellow and red, Alfred 3) _____ (COMMAND) everyone to build _____ and sail to the south, where their winter camp was. Algar and his family 4) _____ (COLLECT) all their _____ that they used to build their summer _____, took their boat and 5) _____ (START) their journey down the river Avon.

On their way, Algar saw a lot of people pulling a giant rock up the hill.

"What are they doing, father?" he asked.

"They are bringing this rock to Old Sarum Hill, son. The people from beyond the river told me that the _____ are constructing a huge stone circle there that they call the Giants' Dance," his father answered. "Now, stop talking and row! We need to get to the winter _____ as fast as we can."

They 6) _____ (ROW) for days. When the father was tired, Algar had to row, too. Only when they arrived to the place and finally put up their hut, Algar 7) _____ (SIT) by the warm fire and thought that it could be great to become a druid one day.

All night he 8) _____ (DREAM) of wearing the long cloak, and of rocks telling him the secrets of the future country called Britain.