AIRBNB

THE END OF HOTELS?

Airbnb es un portal que ofrece todo tipo de alojamientos. Es fácil de usar, pero cuidado: no es oro todo lo que reluce. No tendrá las mismas garantías legales que en un hotel.

Are you [redacted] to travel abroad? If you are, then now you can find convenient solutions in most [redacted] around the world. In this way you don't have to spend [redacted] on hotels. Airbnb is a [redacted] that helps people find and offer convenient accommodation. It is very simple to use and it provides⁴ [redacted] in most

The original site offered short-term⁶ accommodation for people on business trips who had difficulty finding a place to stay during busy periods⁷ of the year, such as congresses and conferences. At the time Chesky and Gebbia were roommates⁸. They didn't always have enough⁹ money to pay for their loft and so they decided to transform their living room¹⁰ into a bed and breakfast for three guests¹¹. They also offered

An interesting fact...

Airbnb didn't make money at first and Brian Chesky and Joe Gebbia were desperate. And so they decided to create special edition breakfast cereals. It was 2008, the year of the financial crisis and the US Presidential election. For this reason Chesky and Gebbia created Obama O's and Cap'n McCain's. These cereals made money. More importantly, they also attracted media attention and investors for Airbnb.

Airbnb is also a social network: the more people you host¹⁴, the better your reputation becomes. The more positive comments you get, the more people will decide to stay at your place. If you are a guest, it is very important to leave your comments about each place you visit.

BUT...

Using Airbnb will not always be so easy. This is because hotel companies hate it!¹⁵ 10 million people have used Airbnb so far¹⁶. Hosts decide the prices and Airbnb takes a percentage. Hotel companies and 'real' bed and breakfasts see this as very negative for their business. There's also the problem of taxes, which Airbnb hosts don't declare. Then there's the question of sanitary and security regulations: Airbnb guests don't have the same guarantees as hotel and bed and breakfast guests. The future will probably be difficult for Airbnb.
