

Instructions: Fill in the gaps using must have, can't have, might have, or could have + the verb in brackets.

Host: In 1945, five military planes vanished over the Atlantic. What really happened?

Expert: Well, the lead pilot radioed that his compasses stopped working. He 1 _____ (get) completely disoriented in the stormy weather.

Host: Is it possible they ran out of fuel?

Expert: Absolutely. They 2 _____ (fly) in circles for hours looking for land until their tanks were empty.

Host: Could they have landed on the water safely?

Expert: The ocean waves were over 15 feet high that night. They 3 _____ (make) a soft landing in those conditions—it was virtually impossible.

Host: What about the rescue plane sent after them that also disappeared?

Expert: Witnesses on a nearby ship saw an explosion in the sky. The rescue plane 4 _____ (catch) fire due to a fuel leak.

Host: So aliens 5 _____ (take) them, as the rumors suggested?

Expert: Definitely not! Science shows human error and bad weather 6 _____ (cause) the tragedy. The wreckage 7 _____ (sink) to the ocean floor, which is why it hasn't been found yet. Investigators 8 _____ (miss) key details back then due to limited technology.