THE SUMATRAN STRIPED RABBIT

The Sumatran striped rabbit is a rare rabbit from Sumatra, Indonesia. Its scientific name is Nesolagus netscheri. It lives in the montane forests of the Barisan Mountains in northwestern Sumatra. This rabbit is different from common rabbits because it has a special striped body.

The Sumatran striped rabbit has a yellowish-grey body with dark brown or black stripes. Its fur is soft and dense. It has short black ears, a broad head, and a short muzzle. Its underparts, including its chin and the inside of its legs, are white. Its legs are grey-brown, while its short tail is reddish. An adult rabbit is about 37–39 centimeters long and weighs around 1.5 kilograms.

The Sumatran striped rabbit is a solitary and nocturnal animal. It is usually active at night and spends the day resting. It lives among dense plants in the forest and often rests in animal burrows or tree hollows. It eats plants, especially the leaves and stalks of understory plants. It also eats fallen fruits. The rabbit is rarely seen, so scientists still know little about its life in the wild.

LAKE TOBA

Lake Toba is a large natural lake in North Sumatra, Indonesia. It is one of the largest volcanic lakes in the world and the largest lake in Indonesia. The lake was formed by a huge eruption of the Toba supervolcano thousands of years ago. Today, Lake Toba is a popular tourist destination because of its beautiful scenery and Batak culture.

Lake Toba has wide, blue, and calm water. It is about 100 kilometers long, 30 kilometers wide, and 505 meters deep. The lake is located about 900 meters above sea level. It is surrounded by green hills, mountains, trees, farms, and small villages. Samosir Island is located in the middle of the lake. The island has traditional Batak houses and villages. The cool air and green scenery make the area feel fresh and peaceful.

Lake Toba is also an important geological area. The Toba Caldera is one of the geoparks in Indonesia and was recognized as a UNESCO Global Geopark in 2020. Visitors can enjoy the beautiful scenery and learn about Batak culture on Samosir Island. The large size, great depth, volcanic origin, natural scenery, and local culture make Lake Toba a unique place in North Sumatra.

ACTIVITY 4 Describing Buildings

Borobudur and Prambanan

Borobudur and Prambanan are two famous temples in Indonesia. Borobudur is a Buddhist temple in Magelang, Central Java, while Prambanan is a Hindu temple in Sleman, near Yogyakarta. Borobudur was built around the 8th to 9th centuries during the Sailendra Dynasty. Prambanan was built in the 9th century during the Mataram Kingdom.

Borobudur was built as a place for Buddhist worship. It has a large and wide structure with several levels, many stupas, and Buddha statues. Its walls have many stone carvings that show Buddhist stories and teachings. Prambanan was built as a place for Hindu worship. It has three main temples for Shiva, Vishnu, and Brahma. Its walls also have stone carvings that tell the story of the Ramayana.

Borobudur and Prambanan have some similarities and differences. However, their shapes and religions are different. Borobudur has a wide and stepped shape with many stupas, while Prambanan has tall and pointed temples. Borobudur shows Buddhist beliefs, while Prambanan shows Hindu beliefs. Today, both temples are important historical and cultural places in Indonesia.
