

(H) Change each noun or verb below into its adjectival form.

- | | |
|-------------------|-------|
| 1. rigor | _____ |
| 2. rancour | _____ |
| 3. tremor | _____ |
| 4. vigilance | _____ |
| 5. vanity | _____ |
| 6. gluttony | _____ |
| 7. hypocrisy | _____ |
| 8. philanthropy | _____ |
| 9. diligence | _____ |
| 10. aroma | _____ |
| 11. deference | _____ |
| 12. comprehension | _____ |
| 13. meddle | _____ |
| 14. efface (self) | _____ |
| 15. office | _____ |
| 16. indulge | _____ |
| 17. reverse | _____ |
| 18. vindicate | _____ |

(I) Now, complete the sentences below using the adjectival forms in your answers to 1-18 above. Do not use any word more than once.

- He is one of the most _____ people I have ever come to know; if you cross him, he will make you live to regret it at some point, whether it takes him a year or ten - and that's another thing; he has a very long memory indeed when it comes to his grudges.
- The _____ opening of the new parliament is scheduled for the 30th May, just before parliament breaks up for the summer.
- He examined the delicate artefact with _____ care. I doubt he could have been any more careful were he holding his own child in his arms.
- Max is _____ in the extreme, and can't help but try to become involved in the affairs of those around him. What he doesn't realise, however, is that his involvement is seldom if ever helpful and usually makes things worse.
- I like to garnish the plate with some _____ herbs as I find it improves the mood of diners no end and adds to the dining experience. Perhaps that is part of the secret behind the excellent reviews my humble eatery has been receiving of late.
- Sometimes, in her efforts to please those higher up in the company than her, I think she goes a tad too far and is much too _____. I think her bosses would respect her more if she spoke up as and when she felt mistakes were being made rather than just passively looking on out of some sense of misguided respect.
- He is truly the most _____ man I have ever had the displeasure of knowing; he pays such careful attention to his looks that it is bordering on pathetic.
- Ordering a second portion of that delicious chicken pie would be a tad _____ I suppose, wouldn't it? Still, though, I'm tempted!
- The product has undergone _____ testing so we are quietly confident of its durability and functionality.
- She is not a very charismatic manager and hardly 'inspires' her staff, but she is exceptionally _____ and I like to think that in having such a good work ethic she leads by example.
- He is a very _____ and humble man and always credits his team when they get a good result. Yet we all now that much of the credit for their improved performances this year is down to his excellence as a man-manager.
- She is too _____ towards her grandchildren and frankly spoils them. That makes life very difficult indeed for their parents.
- Their victory in the fourth round was as _____ as it gets; 4-0 and they dominated possession from the off.
- He is known not just as a fine businessman, but also for his _____ activities; I have heard told that he gives as much as 50% of his net earnings to good causes each year.
- You need to be extremely _____ in a neighbourhood like this when bringing up young children; this is not a safe place for them really.
- So violently _____ was it during the quake that all the plates on my kitchen shelving unit cracked.