My Unforgettable Trip to Yogyakarta

Last holiday, I went on a trip to Yogyakarta with my family. It was the first time I visited this city, and I was very excited because I had always wanted to see the famous temples and experience the local culture.

We arrived in Yogyakarta on Friday morning. After checking in at the hotel, we immediately went to Malioboro Street. The street was crowded with tourists and local people. We walked around, bought some souvenirs, and tried some traditional snacks. In the evening, we enjoyed the delicious Gudeg, a typical Yogyakarta food. It tasted sweet and really delicious.

The next day, we visited Borobudur Temple. The weather was nice, and the view was amazing. The temple was so big and beautiful. I felt so grateful because I could finally see it in person. After that, we went to Prambanan Temple. The architecture was incredible, and I learned a lot about its history from the tour guide.

On the last day, we visited Taman Sari, the former royal water castle. It was quiet and peaceful. We took many photos there before heading back to our hotel. I really enjoyed this trip. It was a wonderful experience, and I will always remember it.
