II. Read the following passage and decide whether the following statements are true (T) or false (F).

Children are encouraged to participate in their communities, help people in need, and try to improve the world. Participating in these community activities helps boost their self-esteem, self-confidence and builds their compassion as well as empathy. Some people think finding age-appropriate opportunities might be difficult, but it's actually not because there are many ways for children to do, whether they are 2 or 12 years old.

There are many local opportunities that children and their parents can join together, even for toddlers, preschoolers, and kindergarteners, who might look too young to volunteer. The activities may be visiting the elderly in the nursing home or participating in a community clean-up day.

There's no reason not to get started early. Even though children may not fully understand the meaning of volunteering, taking part in these activities from an early age can help them establish community activity as a regular part of their life.

Subject: Exciting Volunteer Plans for the Summer!

Hey Henry!

I hope this email finds you well. I'm thrilled to share my summer plans with you! This year, I'll do some volunteer work with my classmates. It will start at the end of May. We will take part in some activities like planting trees, cleaning roads, and organising several community events. The activity I expect the most is teaching poor street children in my neighbourhood. I think I will teach them maths and English because I am good at these subjects. I hope I can help them and have beautiful memories with them. How about you? What are your summer plans?

Catch up with you soon!

Warm regards,

Mary
