Original Text

Last month, Mark had a very bad damage to his leg while playing sports. Because he felt terrible pain and a high fever, his family realized it was an urgent situation and called an ambulance. At the place where sick people go, the doctor checked him as a person receiving medical care and gave him strong treatment to help him with his sickness.

Even though the doctors did not have clear proof of what caused it, Mark started to get better after a few days. While resting at home, his brother's noisy habits began to annoy him, causing them to have an argument.

Eventually, his doctor gave him permission to go outside again and spend time with his friends, who were totally very excited about football.
