Text 1: Maya's New Job

Maya started her new job as a receptionist at a busy medical centre last Monday. Before her first day, she felt incredibly excited because she had been looking for work for six months. However, the first week was very tiring. She had to stand up for long periods and answer hundreds of phone calls. By Friday evening, she was completely exhausted.

Learning the new computer system was quite confusing at first. There were so many different steps to book an appointment, and Maya felt a bit overwhelmed by all the information. Luckily, her manager was very patient and gave her clear instructions. Despite the difficult moments, Maya thinks the work is deeply interesting. She loves talking to different patients every day. She is very interested in taking a medical terminology course next term. Overall, she believes this exciting new career path is exactly what she needed.

Text 2: Bilal's Evening Cooking Class

Last night, Bilal went to his first community cooking class. He usually finds cooking at home very boring, as he always cooks the same simple meals. He often gets bored eating the same food every week, so he decided to try something new. At first, the class was a bit frightening for him. The chef used large, sharp knives and heavy machinery, which made Bilal feel quite frightened of making a mistake. He was also surprised by how fast the other students were working. It was surprising to see beginners chop vegetables so quickly!

By the end of the two-hour session, Bilal had made a fresh, healthy chicken curry from scratch. The process was hard work, but the final result was deeply satisfying. He tasted his dish and felt very satisfied with his effort. He cannot wait to go back next week.

Text 3: Elena's Holiday Search

Elena wanted to book a summer holiday to Spain for her family. Last night, she spent three hours looking at flights and hotels online. The process was very confusing because prices kept changing every time she refreshed the page. There were hundreds of choices, which made her feel totally overwhelmed. She was worried that she would choose a bad hotel, so the search became quite worrying.

Suddenly, she found an amazing deal that included a swimming pool and free breakfast. It was very surprising to find such a cheap price during the peak summer month. Elena was so surprised that she checked the dates three times to make sure it was correct! Now that the hotel is booked, she feels much more relaxed, and the thought of sitting on the beach is deeply relaxing.

Text 4: David's Smart Shopping

David needed to buy a new laptop for his college assignments. Instead of going straight to an expensive high-street shop, he decided to do some smart shopping online. He spent hours comparing different electronic brands and reading reviews. He found the technical specifications very interesting because he loves learning about new technology. He became highly interested in a model that had a very long battery life.

At first, spending £500 felt a bit frightening because he was on a tight budget. David felt quite frightened of wasting his hard-earned savings. However, he used a special online discount code and saved £80. Saving money made the experience incredibly satisfying. David felt very satisfied with his smart purchase and felt excited to start using his fast new computer.
