1. Reading Comprehension

Last Friday, Kim, Ben, Coco, and Alex joined the new school sports club. They met in the gymnasium after their afternoon classes. Everyone was feeling cheerful, but Alex was the most tired boy in the group because he played soccer earlier in the morning. To recharge their energy, the friends sat on the wooden benches to eat a healthy snack. "I brought a few bananas and some water from home," said Ben, opening his bag.

Coco was the hungriest of them all, so he ordered the biggest sandwich and a bottle of soda! Meanwhile, Kim searched her bag for her snack. "Oh no, I don't have any juice left!" she cried. "Don't worry," said Alex. "My mom packed extra drinks today. I have some apple juice and a few cookies. You can have one!"

While eating, they talked about their favorite sports. Kim's swimming lessons were more exciting than Ben's running club, but Alex's basketball tournament was the most interesting topic of all.

When the coach blew the whistle, the friends stood up and ran to the court. The first exercise was easier than they expected, and the new coach was friendlier than their previous one. By five o'clock, all five friends agreed that joining the club was the best idea of the term!
