Many people think that working in TV is exciting, but it's often difficult. For everything to go well, the film crew, presenters and actors must be very good at their jobs.

People think that everything in TV happens very quickly, but the actors often wait around for hours. This can be very boring. Sometimes, it takes a day to make a scene that is only five minutes long. It is also difficult to film outside. For example, the weather can be bad and planes sometimes fly nearby during filming. This is particularly a problem for historical dramas. Next time you watch a film or TV, think about the problems the crew had.
