Last weekend was a busy one at Rob's home. Uncle Ben and his family came to visit. They arrived by airplane on Friday afternoon. Rob's mom picked them up at the airport. The baby woke up and cried the whole night. Rob asked, "Why did she wake up?" Uncle Ben said that she missed her own crib.

The next morning, they visited the most important places in Burlington, the city where they live. First, they visited Burlington's Museum of Transportation, where they saw beautiful paintings of boats. That museum was incredible! Rob wanted to stay, but they had to leave because the baby was hungry. Rob wasn't very happy, but he also needed something to eat. They went to an Italian restaurant and had delicious pizza. After the baby finished eating, they walked through the old part of the city. They saw the library and the train station. Next, they visited a big church.

They were running to catch the tour bus, when suddenly it started to rain a lot. The baby cried, and Uncle Ben said she was tired and needed her bath and dinner. "Oh no! Not again," thought Rob. He did not like the baby's routines. It began to rain. They ran to the parking lot. They all got wet. Rob laughed because the baby got her daily bath on time.

The next day, they stayed at home. It was cold and rainy. Rob's mom prepared a nice breakfast and hot chocolate. Rob enjoyed playing with his cousin and taught her to crawl. The baby had fun at last!
