EDWARD JENNER

Edward Jenner (1749–1823), who was a doctor in a small town in Gloucestershire, decided to carry out some 1 _____ SEARCH into a serious disease called smallpox. He knew that people who worked with cows often caught cowpox, which was not a very serious 2 _____, ILL but they never seemed to catch smallpox. He decided to carry out an experiment which now seems extremely 3 _____ DANGER
He gave cowpox to James Phipps, the seven-year-old son of his gardener. Later he tried to give the boy smallpox, but the boy was fine – the cowpox that he had had was protecting him.
This was a major 4 _____ in the history of science BREAK and Jenner called it 5 _____, VACCINATE after the Latin word vacca, which means cow.
