FAQs

Q: How long can humans survive without water?

A: Well, not for very long! Because we need water to control all of our body's functions, scientists estimate that the average person can survive for only about three or four days.

Q: Is it dangerous to drink too much water?

A: Yes, very! In order to be healthy, we should drink plenty of water, but drinking too much too fast can cause death from "water intoxication". So as not to suffer from this dangerous condition, never participate in water drinking contest!

Q: How much water does the average person use per day?

A: The average U.S. citizen uses between 300 and 400 liter of water daily. Not suprisingly, most of the water used is for washing and flushing the toilet.

Q: Is it best to drink pure water during high-intensity exercise?

A: Not really. When you sweat during exercise, you lose electrolytes such as calcium and potassium. If you're doing very heavy exercise and sweating a lot, it's better to drink a sports drink so that electrolytes are replaced.

Reading: Traditions

Harry: So, Brandon, I'm going to be in the U.S.A. for Thanksgiving this year. Are there any traditions or customs I should know about before I go?

Brandon: Well, the main tradition is that everyone gets together with the whole family and has Thanksgiving dinner.

There's lots of traditional, like turkey and sweet potatoes.

Harry: I'm used to big family meals, but I'm not used to eating that kind of food, so that'll be interesting! Anything else?

Brandon: Everyone watches the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade on TV. That's a really important tradition. And one unusual tradition is that the President pardons a turkey.

Harry: Excuse me?

Brandon: The President goes on TV, and there's a ceremony with a live turkey. That turkey is allowed to live, instead of being eaten for Thanksgiving dinner. It's a kind of joke tradition, really.

Harry: I'll never get used to the President pardoning a turkey, and I'm not sure I'll ever get used to the American sense of humor, either!

Brandon: You'll have to get used to a lot more than that in my country, believe me!
