because they had walked twenty miles. He had heard that bears don't like eating dead meat.

because they hadn't eaten all day He wanted to know what the bear had said to him.

After the bear had gone

THE BEAR AND THE TRAVELERS

Two travelers were walking slowly along a country road. They were going to the city because they were looking for work. They were tired and they were hungry ...

Suddenly in the woods in front of them, they saw a huge bear. The men were terrified. One of them ran away, climbed a tree and hid.

The other man fell and pretended to be dead

The bear came towards him.

It bent down, sniffed him and whispered something in his ear. Then it wandered away.

..... The other men came down from his tree and went to see where his friend was

"The bear gave me some advice" said to his companion. He said "Next time you go on a journey, travel with someone who won't leave you at the first sign of danger"
