	The stranger said that for a fee, he could get rid of the rats.
1	Long ago the town of Hamelin was invaded by rats.
	So, the stranger played his pipe again and the children danced after him.

	Then, the stranger became angry because the mayor didn't pay his coins.
	People were afraid, so the mayor called for a meeting.
	Finally, they marched out of the town, went inside the mountain and they were never seen again.
	The stranger and the rats got the bridge.
	Suddenly, a stranger got the town with a pipe around his neck.
	All the rats jump into the river.
	That night the stranger played his pipe, and the rats were after him.
