1. Read what these delegates to an Earth Summit say and answer questions a – e. (10 points)

Developed countries should provide financial aid to developing countries. Both developed countries and developing countries should place importance on educating the people about environmental protection, in order to reduce waste. Multinational companies must make the forest industry and reforestation sustainable.

Opening up forests is the basis for food and furniture production worldwide. If we restrain the clearing of trees around the world, there won't be space for farming and there won't be raw materials to make products that are used every day.

a) Who agrees with environmental protection?

b) What are their arguments in favor?

c) Who disagrees with environmental protection?

d) What are their arguments against?

e) Who do you agree with? Why?
