Unusual transport around the world

1. Monte Toboggan in Madeira

Monte toboggans were once the main mode of transportation for the local people. People used it to go downhill. Today, only tourists travel by this transportation to enjoy their trip. Two men push it to move.

2. Bamboo Train in Cambodia

Cambodian bamboo train is known as a nori. Passengers sit on a bamboo train which is powered by an electric generator engine. Its height is just inches above the railway tracks. Bamboo train travels at up to 40kilometres per hour. The fares are low and this is a once in a lifetime experience. Locals use them for getting around.

3. Ice Angel in Wisconsin

In Wisconsin's Apostle Islands, there is only one island where people live. It is the Madeline Island. You can visit this island from Bayfield by ferry during summer. In winter, when the ice is not strong enough to travel on it, the Ice Angels – ice boats with air propellers are used for service. But when the lake freezes, residents use this type of vehicle to travel to and from the island.
