Read the following passage, then answer the questions below:

Mr. Josh always liked a comfortable journey. So, when he got into a train, he always put his bag on the seat beside him and pretend it belonged to his friend.

One day he did this when the train was very crowded. Other passengers came and sat on the other seats except the one with his bag. Then an old man arrived, looked at the bag and said, "Is this seat taken?". Mr. Josh answered. "Yes, this is my friend's bag. He will return soon." Mr. Josh looked out at the window to make the old man think that he was worried about his friend. "All right, I will sit here until your friend comes back, and then I'll get up." said the old man. Mr. Josh could not say anything because all the other passengers were watching and listening.

Several minutes later, the whistle blew and the train began to move. Mr. Josh's friend did not come back. The old man stand up and said, "I'm sorry. Looks like your friend missed the train. We don't want him to be separated from his bag. So I'll throw it out of the window." Mr. Josh couldn't say anything but he decided not to play this game again.
