2) Put the verbs in brackets in the correct tense:

Star Wars forever

Next weekend, I _____ (go) to a Star Wars convention at the National Exhibition Centre with my dad and my sister. At this time on Saturday afternoon, we _____ (stand) in line, eager with anticipation, outside the Centre and by the end of the weekend, with a bit of luck, I _____ (meet) some of the actors from the films. Not main actors like Harrison Ford or Daisy Ripley, of course. Unfortunately, they _____ (not sign) autographs at the last convention so we can expect the same for this one. However, the guy who plays one of the androids will be there, and so will the guy who plays Chewbacca. The minute I _____ (get) to the convention, I'm going to pull out my camera! My sister's coming too, but I _____ (not think) she's keen. I think she'd sooner be somewhere else. My dad told me that he _____ (already- attend) a Star Wars convention before. Amazingly that was in 1987 when the first Star Wars films came out. When he was a boy, he _____ (collect) Star Wars toys, and he remembers getting a model of the Millennium Falcon for Christmas. He must have felt really excited when he _____ (open) such an amazing present all those years ago. I can't wait for my first convention. I _____ (never- be) to one before and I'm really excited!
