

Why are women paid less than men?

Part 1

Women who work _____ still earn 15% less than men, but that's not because they're paid _____ for the same job. It is because they're in _____ jobs.

Women are in less senior jobs. In Britain, _____, and Germany, 80 to 90% of _____ jobs are _____ by men. Women also _____ to choose different occupations.

In America over 80% of _____, nurses, _____, and health workers are _____. And these jobs tend to be _____ paid. Primary school teachers in the West earn nearly _____ % less than the average _____ job. Teachers earn less than police _____, cleaners less than caretakers.

Part 2

Women are as _____ as men. They earn the majority of _____ degrees.

In America, they now ask for _____ as often as men. But it's the price women pay for _____ that holds them back.

In Britain 70% of mothers reduce their working _____ or switch to a less _____ job compared _____ 11 % of fathers. In Australia, it's 56% of mothers and 19% of fathers, while in France 55% of mothers scale back compared with _____.

When an American woman goes back to work, her _____ is on average lower than it would have been if she hadn't had a child.

The race for gender _____ is far from over.

promotion

university

fathers

motherhood

salary

demanding

with

hours

equality

ambitious